[From the "Land We Love," for June.]

GEN. GEO. BURGWYN ANDERSON.

By Seaton Gales.

An unsullied honor, a record that shall be immortal, and a grateful and affectionate remembrance of her martyred sons, are all that are left to the South from the wreck of the great civil war. That honor, no prejudice or malignity can successfully assail or ever tarnish. That record of heroism and devotion shall grow in lustre as the years advance, and be the theme of song and story in ages yet to come. And that love and veneration for the noble dead will live and intensify until the present generation sleeps in dust; and then our children and our children's children

"shall revive their names, and in fond memories
Preserve and still keep fresh, like flowers in water,
Their glorious deeds!"

Lavish as have been her offerings, North Carolina has rarely made a richer contribution to fame and history, than when George Burgwyn Anderson left them the legacy of his bright young name and example. It shall be the object of this imperfect sketch to tell his services and commemorate a life that was as admirable while it lasted, as it was glorious in its conclusion.

George Burgwyn Anderson was born in Orange county, within one mile of Hillsboro', on the 12th day of April, 1831. His father was William E. Anderson, a brother of Chief-Justice Walker Anderson, of Florida, and best known as the faithful and intelligent Cashier, for many years, of the Branch Bank of the State, at Wilmington. His mother, Eliza, was the daughter of George Burgwyn, of the "Hermitage," in New Hanover,—the head of a family graced by all the qualities which adorn society.—He received his elementary education from that best of all instructors,—the mother,—and was subsequently a pupil of Col. Wm. Bingham, and at the Caldwell Institute, in Hillsboro'. As a boy, he was remarkable for the brightness of his intellect, his amiable and cheerful disposition, manly deportment and studious habits,—the same qualities which, in after life, characterized him in so remarkable a degree. He matriculated at the University of North Carolina in 1847,—joining the Sophomore class of that year. Up to the time of his leaving the institution, he shared the first honors of his class with John Hill, a young man of high promise who died early, Wm. H. Johnson, of Tarboro', afterwards a Tutor at Chapel Hill, and Professor W. C. Kerr, at present Geologist of the State. The distinguished President of the University speaks of him as one of the most punctual members of his class, as gentlemanly in deportment, most exemplary in morals, and, in every respect, the fitting compeer of the best of his contemporaries. It is only deemed necessary to refer, thus briefly, to his youthful antecedents. Many facts are in the possession of the writer, exhibiting the germ of that character which, in maturer years, made him the object of such high hopes and tender regard; but the great events in which, as a man, he played so illustrious a part, obscure the trivial but pleasing incidents of his boyhood.

Through the kind agency of the Hon. A. W. Venable, he obtained the appointment of a Cadetship to West Point, and entered the Military Academy in 1848, a member of a class numbering ninety-four young men, and which graduated forty-one members.—As soon as his studies commenced, in September of the first year's course, it became apparent (to use the language of General Stanley, U. S. A., who was his contemporary) that "young Anderson was not only one of the brightest intellects, but the very superior mind of his class." In the Mathematics, Physics and Engineering, he was particularly ready, and subjects or problems that ordinary minds agonized over for hours, he comprehended and mastered with a single reading. But he was too fond of reading and genial companions to confine himself to the dry studies of the Academy; and hence it was that he graduated only ninth in his class,—a high standing, of itself, but nothing to what he might have accomplished, as was evidenced by the fact that, at the first examination, in January, after his admission, he stood second. The library was his favorite resort, and among the haunts of history, philosophy, and general literature he strolled and culled their choicest fruits.

In 1850, the strife in Congress between the North and South, growing out of the Compromise agitation of that period, invaded the precincts of the Academy, and controversy was as excited and blood as hot there as in the National Legislature.—While young Anderson was earnest and decided in the vindication of the imperiled rights of his section, and devoted, with all the enthusiasm of his generous nature, to the sunny land of his nativity, his discussions were always marked by courtesy. In one of these discussions, as described by General Stanley, it was remarked by a participant: "Well, if war must follow, I hope that my day may have passed, that I may not live to see it." "No," said Anderson, "deeply as I too would deplore it, if it must come, I would feel it wrong that I should put off, for a succeeding generation, a misery that I am more entitled to bear." Those who were most intimately acquainted with George B. Anderson know, that if there was any one trait, next to his scrupulous conscientiousness and exalted sense of personal honor that distinguished him and made him the nature's nobleman he was, it was his utter abnegation of self. And what a superb illustration of it was here!

In 1852 the class graduated, and Anderson's standing entitling him to the choice of the arm of service he should enter, he selected that of the Dragoons. After spending six months at the Cavalry School, at Carlisle, he was detailed by the Hon. Jefferson Davis, then Secretary of War, as an assistant to Lieut. Farke, of the Engineers, ordered to make a survey for a practical railroad route in California. In this scientific duty, he spent most of the summer, fall and winter of 1853. We next find Lieut. Anderson joining his regiment, the 2nd Dragoons, at Fort Chadburne, Texas.—Among the officers more or less connected with this extreme and desolate frontier post, during the year of his stay, may be mentioned W. J. Hardee, R. H. Anderson, Albert Sidney Johnson, Geo. H. Steuart and H. H. Sibley, afterwards Confederate Generals, and Pleasanton and Stanly, subsequently general officers in the Federal army. In the fall of 1855, the regiment marched across the plains from Texas to Fort Riley, Kansas, when Anderson, then 1st. Lieutenant, commanded his company in the absence of Capt. Patrick Calhoun, then in his last illness. The winter of 1855-'56 was spent at Fort Riley, and in the spring of the latter year, the Kansas troubles commenced. From that time until the middle of the summer of 1857, the troops in the country were incessantly engaged either in the arrest of predatory parties headed by such marauders as Jim Lane and Ossawatomie Brown, or in interposing to prevent the destruction of some exposed village by a Missouri mob. Here Lieut. Anderson had for a commander Gen. E. V. Sumner, and served in the same command with the since illustrious Joseph E. Johnston. In 1857, the Utah expedition was undertaken, the 2nd Dragoons was one of the regiments detailed for the duty, and Lieutenant Anderson was appointed its Adjutant. In the autumn of 1859, passing over intermediate events, he left Utah for Kentucky.

On the 8th of November, of that year, he was married to Miss Mildred Ewing, of Louisville. The following Spring, he received the recruiting detail and was stationed at Louisville until April, 1861, when he resigned his commission in the United States Army and hastened to North Carolina to link his fortunes with those of his State.—He was the first officer of the old army, then in service, who proffered his sword and his life to North Carolina. True to the patriotic and filial instincts of his great heart, he rushed to the defence of the dear land of his nativity and his affections. In that defence he died,—nobly died, in the prime vigor of manhood, in the full flush of promise, and in the possession of all the endearing heart-treasures that make life lovely and attractive—gloriously died, for a cause in one sense now lost, but none the less right and holy, because so lost, and in the justice of which he believed as fully as he did in the existence of that truth which he idolized.

Arriving in Raleigh, he was commissioned by Governor Ellis, as Colonel of the 4th Regiment, North Carolina State Troops, on the 15th day of May. This regiment, being one of the earliest formed in the State, was composed of the choicest material, and included in its ranks some of the best representatives of North Carolina. John A. Young, of Charlotte, well known throughout the State as a gentleman of high character, and as a leading public man in his section, was Lieutenant Colonel, and Bryan Grimes, of Pitt, who subsequently won a merited promotion to a Major Generalcy, was its Major. Among its line officers were men, who had represented the people in many positions of trust and prominence. Colonel Anderson proceeded at once, with energy and enthusiasm, to reduce the raw and incongruous elements of his command to system, and, although applying to it the rigid regimen of the regular army, he combined with discipline and decision so much of affability and kindness as to reconcile the impatient material to his rule, and to win the hearts of his regiment. His men loved him from the start, and their affection grew almost to idolatry as they, in the course of time, experienced his tender regard for their comfort, his just and impartial administration, and the judgment, prudence and caution, which he united with the gallantry of the Marshals of the Empire. And he, in turn, was proud of his regiment; and well he might have been, for a braver band of heroes never faced a foe or marched under martial banners.

The regiment, after being fully organized at Garysburg, was ordered to Manassas, which it reached a few days after the battle of the 21st of July. A short time after its arrival, Colonel Anderson was appointed Commandant of the post, and, under his skilful superintendence, many of the fortifications around Manassas were completed. Even at this early day he was strongly recommended for a Brigadier Generalcy by Generals Beauregard and Johnston, who were impressed with his eminent capacity; but owing to certain invidious representations, the Government failed, at that time, to recognize his claims. He remained in command at Manassas until the evacuation of that post in March, 1862. At Clark's Mountain on the Rapidan, en route for the Peninsula, General Featherston, of Mississippi, was assigned to the command of the brigade,—General Johnston, and General D. H. Hill, commanding the division, expressing surprise and regret at his supersedure.

The command reported for duty to Gen. Rains, at Yorktown, on the 9th. of April, and was assigned to the left of Gen. Magruder's line of defence. Although present and slightly engaged at Williamsburg, on the 5th. of May, the 4th. regiment did not receive its real baptism of fire until the great battle of Seven Pines, on the 31st.—Here Col. Anderson, in the absence of Gen. Featherston, commanded the brigade, which consisted of the 49th. Va., Col. (ex-Gov.) Smith, the 27th. and 28th. Georgia, and the 4th. N. C. The latter carried into action 520 enlisted men and had 86 killed and 376 wounded! Of 27 officers for duty, 24 were either killed or wounded! No comment is needed to point the moral of such an exhibit. Nor is it our purpose to give any further details of this desperate engagement, with its many tragic and thrilling incidents.—When its history is fully written, the fact will be recognized that few, if any, battles of the war were fought with more conspicuous valor, with finer exhibitions of individual intrepidity or more splendid instances of aggregated daring. Col. Anderson behaved throughout with such distinguished gallantry and skill as to elicit the highest encomiums from Gen. D. H. Hill, and to draw from the Government a prompt commission as Brigadier General, which was issued to him on the 9th. day of June.

The brigade assigned him was composed of the 2nd., 4th., 14th. and 30th. regiments of N. C. Troops—all of which, under their then and subsequent commanders, earned an immortality of renown.

On the 26th. of June, the series of battles around Richmond began, in all of which the brigade participated, and in the concluding one of which (Malvern Hill) General Anderson received a wound in the hand, while leading his brave boys through a terrific storm of shot and shell.

The writer of this sketch joined Gen. Anderson as Adjutant General of his brigade on the 25th. day of August, 1862, while it was in bivouac on the Rapidan—the army, after some six weeks' repose from the giant struggles of the "seven days," being en route for the first Maryland invasion. It was not the fortune of Gen. Hill's division to have an active part in any of the engagements of this remarkable campaign, until that of the 14th. of September, at the South Mountain Gap, near Boonsboro, in Maryland, of which it may with safety be observed that, in its consequences, in the accomplishment of pre determined objects, and in the skilful disposition of small numbers to oppose overwhelming odds, it is without a parallel in the war. The division, unaided until a late hour of the afternoon, held in check the advance of the greater portion of McClellan's vast army, endeavoring, with battering-ram impetus, to force its way through the narrow gap, and thereby afforded time for the concentration of our various corps, dispersed in strategic directions, in season for the bloody issue at Sharpsburg. In this engagement (South Mountain) Gen. Anderson behaved with his characteristic intrepidity, and additional evidence was furnished this day that none of his brigade commanders more enjoyed the confidence of the division commander than the youthful and recent Brigadier.—This is exalted praise, when it is remembered that he was associated with such men as Garland and Rodes. We need not tell who they were. Garland (between whom and Gen. Anderson, by the way, there existed an earnest friendship and admiration) fell early in this action. An accomplished gentleman, the very soul of chivalry, and one of the first civilian officers in the service, he would have won high distinction had he lived. Rodes, who ultimately succeeded Gen. Hill in the command of the division, was slain at Winchester, on the 19th. of September, 1864. His loss was one of those terrible disasters, which foreshadowed the final and approaching catastrophe.

We may not essay to describe the unequal field of Sharpsburg. It has been claimed as a victory for the Federal arms. History will not so write it, with all the facts and sequences impartially arrayed. At daylight, on Wednesday, Sept. 17th., Gen. D. H. Hill's division occupies the centre of the line drawn up to receive the brunt of battle. Soon, desperate and heavy from the left roll the boom of artillery and the rattle of small arms. A retreating mass of men sweeps over the hills in that direction, where the enemy has attacked with tremendous force. General Hill's division is ordered to change front to left, and, marching through a growing field of corn, it takes position in a long lane,—Ripley on the extreme left, then Garland's brigade, (commanded by Colonel D. K. McRae,) next Rodes, and Anderson on the right. But few moments elapsed ere this small division, weakened by its losses at South Mountain, was furiously assailed by a force immeasurably its superior. It seemed madness to stand, but, true to its glorious prestige, it calmly awaited the shock. This was about 8 o'clock. And then the air shook with the din of arms,—of musket and of cannon,—and high above the clash and roar rung the angry "shouting of the Captains," the cries of the wounded and the groans of dying men. General Anderson occupied a prominent position on slightly rising ground, immediately in rear of his command. While thus exposed, and displaying the most splendid courage, animating his men by his example, and directing them by his cool and collected orders, he was struck in the foot, near the ankle joint, by a minnie ball and fell. He was at once carried, with difficulty and danger, to an improvised hospital in the rear, and the wound examined and pronounced severe but not serious. No one dreamed that one of the truest and bravest men that ever lived had the wound of death upon him.

He was subsequently conveyed across the Potomac to Shepherdstown, and received every attention at the hands of the estimable ladies of the family of Mrs. Botcier, until Friday morning, when the falling back of the army necessitated his further removal. Friends counseled his remaining, but he revolted at the idea of falling into the hands of the enemy, and his heart yearned for the ministrations of his devoted and lovely wife, and the little endearments of his infant boy. By slow stages, in company with his brother and Aid-de-camp, Lieut. Robert Walker Anderson, who was wounded in the same battle, and who was afterwards killed in the Wilderness, on the 5th. of May, 1864, (and a noble type of the Christian gentleman he was;) he was carried in a wagon up the Valley, to Staunton, and thence by rail to Raleigh, which place he reached about the 26th. of the month. At the residence of his brother, William E. Anderson, Esq., he was the recipient of every kindness that a sympathizing community could bestow, and of the best surgical attention. We may not invade the precincts of that home and speak of the tender love that, angel-like, hovered around his couch. After a fortnight of intense suffering, mortification having taken place, amputation was deemed necessary as the last hope of saving his valuable life.—The operation was skilfully performed, but he sank under it and died on the morning of the 16th. day of October, and surrendered his pure and noble spirit to God.

One of the largest public meetings ever held in Raleigh testified the sorrow of the citizens at the great public loss, and their sympathy with that agonized family. And when the intelligence of his death reached the army, brave men mourned and wept.—Death was, and had been, all around them, and they had become used, and perhaps callous, to its contemplation; but the loss of their leader and their friend moved them to new and expressive emotion.

He was buried in the City Cemetery.—The funeral was one of the most imposing ever witnessed in Raleigh. The old flag, which waved above him at Seven Pines, riddled with bullets, was borne on its shattered staff in the cortege, and, attached to the saddle on the horse, which was led by his body servant, was the sword which he wore when he received the fatal wound. This sword was once the property of his gallant uncle, Capt. J. H. K. Burgwyn, and was on his person when he fell bravely fighting at the battle of Pueblo de Taos, in Mexico.

What is left to be said may be comprehended in few words. Such a life needs no formal eulogy.

Perhaps the most marked traits of General Anderson's character were his sincerity, his conscientiousness and his earnest devotion to truth. These might, if qualities so noble ever could be so deemed, have been considered, by some, as almost quixotic in the extent to which he carried them. He would have died, if possible, a thousand times, before he would have swerved an inch from the straitest paths of rectitude and honor. With a spirit as gentle and confiding as a child's, he had all the nerve and decision of the best type of a man.—Modesty herself was not more unassuming than he. Who that ever knew him can forget his smile, when pleasant and genial emotions were excited! It was like a sun beam lighting up his handsome face, and winning the prepossessions of all who approached him by an irresistible magic. Such a smile could only have been born of a heart, in which the purest thoughts had their home. And it was, if we may so speak, the index to his whole inner nature.

Had he been spared, he would undoubtedly have attained the highest distinction.—But a death in the defence of home and country is equal to a life-time of glory, and when North Carolina makes up her roll of honor—as she must and will do, when calmer times supervene—full justice will be done to his memory. Surveying, in mournful and grateful retrospect, the long catalogue of dead heroes who have illustrated her name and history, she will dwell with peculiar pride upon the life and services of George Burgwyn Anderson.

WM. E. PELL, | SEATON GALES, EDITORS.

THURSDAY, MAY 30, 1867.

JUDGE KELLY, OF PENNSYLVANIA—THE MISSIONARY TO THE SOUTH.

WHAT HE THINKS OF THE POORER CLASS OF WHITE MEN IN THE SOUTHERN STATES.

The country has been flooded by copies of a speech of this gentleman, delivered in the House of Representatives, on the 31st of January last, on "Protection to American Labor." It is a labored pamphlet, filled with quotations from his favorite authors, from Dr. Johnson down to the lowest scribbler for party newspapers,—all of which he makes his own by his approbation of their facts and opinions. We take a few extracts from this hotchpot of what is borrowed and what is his own, that the poorer classes of our white fellow-citizens, (than whom, we affirm with perfect confidence, there is not a better, braver or more honest population on the face of the earth,) may see what estimate Mr. Kelly places on what he is pleased to call "the mean whites," estimated at over four millions out of eight in the Southern States.

At page 8 of his pamphlet, Mr. Kelly says: "Nor does it (free trade) seem, from recent descriptions, and from our observations of them in military prisons and hospitals, to have materially benefitted them down to the present day. J. R. Gilmer, Esq., 'Edmund Kirke,' in his discourse on the social and political characteristics of the Southern whites, before the Jersey City Literary Association, estimated the number known as 'mean whites' at over four millions, and described them as herding together in sparse communities and gleaning a sorry subsistence from hunting, fishing and poaching in the mountain districts of Virginia, upper Georgia, Alabama and Mississippi, and the sand-hills of North Carolina, and the barrens of Tennessee, and throughout the rest of the South; as hovering around the borders of the large plantations, quartering themselves upon the chivalry, stealing the deer from their forests, and the hams from their smoke-houses. He said they were tolerated by the planters for the two hundred thousand votes they gave for slavery and the mad theories of the planters, and added, 'they are far below the slaves in morals and civilization; are indolent, thriftless, thieving, lying, given to whiskey-drinking, snuff-dipping, clay-eating, incest, and all manner of social vices.' Not one in a thousand of them can read; not one in ten thousand can write; and he said that he had met many who had never seen a book or newspaper, and some who had never heard of a Bible or spelling book." Judge Kelly goes on thus: "Mr. B. C. Truman, an accredited correspondent of that journal, in a letter to the New York Times, dated Montgomery, Alabama, October 23rd, 1865, said: 'There is a class of beings in all the Southern States, known as poor whites.—The little monosyllable adjective does not give the faintest idea of these things, with bodies and souls. How under the heavens they live, is a question for the philanthropist, if indeed that paragon of benevolence has ever visited the region in which they exist. The homes of the poor whites,'"—(then follows an account of what this Mr. Truman had seen in Alabama.)

Mr. Kelly resumes: "And Dixon, the travelling correspondent of the Boston Daily Advertiser, whose admirable letters prove him to be a keen observer and faithful reporter, writing from Fort Valley, Ga., Nov. 15, said: Whether the North Carolina dirt eater or the South Carolina sand-hiller or the Georgia cracker is lowest in the scale of human existence, would be difficult to say. The ordinary plantation negro seemed to me, when I first saw him in any numbers, at the very bottom of not only probabilities, but also possibilities, so far as they affect human relations; but these specimens of the white race must be credited with having reached a yet lower depth of squalid and beastly wretchedness," &c., &c. See page 9.

After giving this extract at length, from a writer who seems to torture his memory for terms of degradation, Mr. Kelly breaks out into interrogatories: Whether a policy, that of free trade, which produces such results, can be wise? That is, he in effect affirms, that these results, this condition of things, exists, to-wit: that the "poor whites," or "mean whites," "estimated at over four millions," are in the situation that he describes, and that the fact is demonstrated not only from the recent descriptions of the literary lecturer and newspaper agents from whom he quotes, but from "our (we must conclude his own) observation of them, (the Southern soldiers, of course,) in military prisons and hospitals."

Such is the picture of more than four millions out of eight, of the white people of the Southern States, which Mr. Kelly draws from his privileged seat in Congress, from which he votes to exclude any representative who can contradict or correct it; and he sends it with whatever authority it may derive from his character, (of which we are bound to believe it respectable at home,) by thousands into the Northern States as a true representation of our society and civilization, so far, at least, as to the extent of one half of our white population. Nor do we learn that, in his recent speeches at Charlotte, Concord, Salisbury or Greensboro', he made any withdrawal, explanation or retraction, nor any promise to correct the impression he had made upon the people of the North, after his return home.

Let Mr. Kelly pass! Room for another interesting politician!

DEEP RIVER REGION.

We hope that the attention of capitalists will be drawn to the important letter of Mr. Kerr, the State Geologist, which we published some days ago. The existing condition of the projected improvements in the Deep river region, and the almost entire abandonment, at least for the present, of the coal and iron mines, afford one of the most palpable evidences of the bad effects of the war, to be found in this State.

Science and actual experiment give the most decided evidences of the existence of immense bodies of coal and iron there, within easy access to tide water, to be found on the continent. The iron, especially, is of the best kind for almost any purpose, and every thing necessary for its mining and manufacture, and for the mining of the coal, can be found in abundance on the spot.—There cannot, we judge, be any reasonable doubt of the immense wealth of the Deep river region.

Energy and capital are all that are needed to bring out this wealth. A small amount of work on the river will bring these products to the terminus of the Fayetteville railroad. On the other hand, the completion of the Chatham railroad, already graded, will open an additional outlet for them, and bring the iron and coal of Deep river within the reach of the world.

Many of those who are interested in these mines are unable to develope them. We are at a loss, therefore, to see why interested parties do not exert themselves to bring them to the notice of large capitalists who are traversing the South in quest of chances for investment. Much capital has already been invested both in upper North Carolina and Virginia in our mines. The products of the mines in the up county will always be subject to drawbacks, because of the distance from market, which those in the Deep river region will not have to contend with. Why is it, then, that the mines of that section have not been preferred?

If any Conservative man is hesitating about registering, let him glance at the fruits of indifference to political results, as developed in Tennessee. There, two years ago, the masses of the people stood aloof, apparently indifferent to the issue, as many seem indifferent here. This neglect of duty on their part enabled the radicals to control the Legislature, which passed a series of enactments of the most oppressive character. They have adopted a system of registration so monstrous as not only to disfranchise the masses of the white people, but also to prevent the registration of colored people who are supposed to be under conservative influence. And, as if this were not sufficiently oppressive, the radical governor is clothed with power to declare the registration void in any county he chooses; and thus to throw out the vote of every county which may be opposed to radical policy. Under this singular government, ironically styled republican, the governor is invested with the power to re-elect himself as often as he chooses, and has a military force at his disposal to enforce his ceict.

Let the citizens of North Carolina ponder upon these results and escape the errors into which others have fallen.

Lime as a Fertilizer.—Farmers in North Carolina have never been so fully alive, as now, to the importance of fertilizing. We presume, from what we have heard, that, the present season, at least double the quantity, if not quadruple, has been brought into the State of any previous year. The scarcity and cost of labor render this absolutely necessary, and year after year will add to the necessity.

We beg leave, however, to call the special attention of planters to an omission, on their part, which we consider a serious one. In the use of fertilizers, it appears to us, they are looking almost entirely to present benefit, whereas the true policy of the South is to look to permanent improvement.

Lime, perhaps, is the cheapest and most permanent improvement to our lands, with grasses and resting, which can be employed. Our Eastern Counties are well supplied with marl, and the West abounds in the best of limestone. Lime can be obtained at a small price compared with other fertilizers. The use of Peruvian guano alone, in the quantities heretofore used, is too great a stimulant, and will soon exhaust the soil. Why not, then, buy less of the stimulating and expensive fertilizers, and more of lime? By this means, the chief market crops can be produced well, though not quite so largely, while a larger portion of the farm can be manured, and every farmer can become a larger producer of the cereals and the grasses, at very little additional expense. Think of it.

A New Deal.—We see in certain quarters that an effort is to be made to have a new Convention of the Republicans and a re-arrangement of the platform. We care not what name the organization may assume, provided the platform laid down conforms to the Military Bill, without another plank added or one subtracted. That is a programme which, under the circumstances, we all can go. We trust this intimation may be carried out, and a set of Resolutions introduced that will embrace all. We have all the time said, there was no necessity for party division in this State. All are alike actuated by a desire to see the State re-admitted; but a large majority are generally disinclined to see incorporated anything more offensive than Congress has required. Should this Convention meet and strike out those unnecessary articles in the Raleigh platform, and cut itself loose from certain malignants, a perfect concord and harmony might exist between parties, races and colors.

We endorse, with little qualification, the above from our cotemporary, the Charlotte Times. The Congressional platform, nothing more, nothing less, is platform enough for any one in North Carolina. If those who will commit the blunder of joining a party, before we are recognized as fit for the family relationship, will only lay down that platform, and no other, we are sure no organization will be formed to oppose them. The only question, then, which can posibly arise, will be the selection of the men for the Convention. If they will give us good, reliable, honest men for the Convention, we shall be glad; otherwise, the people will make their own selections.

Our cotemporary, the Petersburg Express, alluding to that portion of our worthy Mayor's invitation to President Johnson, in which he says that our old men would like to recall, with him, the memories of "earlier days," has the following:

"There are some strange memories, indeed, linked to those earlier and happier days. There was a time, we are informed by an old citizen of Warrenton, when Johnson, just elevated to Congressional position, as a Democrat, stopped at his native city, and before a brilliant assemblage in the State House delivered an address. Party spirit ran high in those days, and a coterie of Whigs, determined to bring the blush of shame to the cheeks of the "coming President," sought out from the purlieus of a low suburb, known as "Ramcat," Andrew Johnson's brother, then a poor, ragged, miserable sot, and taking him up to the State House pushed him forward to claim the recognition of the Speaker. "How do you do, brother?" said the shabby unfortunate, who happened at the time to have been unusually hard up for soap as well as for apparel. The speaker took the extended hand, and perceiving the occasion for the incident in the uproarious hilarity of the Whigs, responded: "I am well—but you might have paid me the compliment to have washed yourself a little before your call." And placing his hand in his pocket he drew out a bank note, gave it to his brother, and ended the disagreeable interview."

We must spoil our friend's reminiscence In the first place, Mr. Johnson never spoke in the "State House;" in the second, he had not then, nor has he now, any brother residing in this State; and, in the third, no such incident transpired at all.

Mr. Johnson paid a visit to this city about the year 1843, and addressed the people in the Court House. He was not treated with any discourtesy by his Whig opponents on the occasion. He was the guest, at the time, of our worthy and venerable townsman, James Litchford, who had worked on the same tailor's bench with him many years before, and who was a genuine Whig "of the old line." While at Mr. L's., several of Mr. Johnson's humble relatives called on him and were doubtless the recipients of his bounty.

Judge Kelly spoke in Salisbury, on Monday evening, and in Greensboro, on Tuesday evening. We are glad to learn that he is mollifying and moderating. The Old North State says of his remarks in Salisbury:

"It is proper to say that it was an able and interesting speech, that it was conceived in excellent temper, and breathed throughout a spirit of conciliation and harmony. It was not to be expected that everything he said would meet with the approval of all our people, yet we can say, with perfect truth, that there was not only no incendiarism, but nothing else in the speech to which any reasonable man could take any exceptions. Many persons who differ widely with Judge Kelly in political sentiment, have expressed themselves well pleased with the speech, while few or none are found who complain. That portion of his remarks which were addressed particularly to the colored population were of the most conservative and judicious character. He urged them to lives of sobriety, virtue and industry. He told them that freedom would bring them no land unless they earned it with their own labor and purchased it with their own means—said freedom had brought him no land, as he was thirty-five years old before he ever owned an acre, and then he purchased it with the fruits of his own industry. So the freedman must acquire land if he ever acquired it at all."

Bankruptcy.—We learn, from the Old North State, that Chief Justice Chase has sent the following nominations to Judge Brooks for Registers in Bankruptcy in this State: For the 7th. District, Col. C. A. Cilley; for the 6th. District, R. H. Broadfield, Esq.; for the 5th. District, Thomas B. Keoah, Esq.

Boutwell, of Massachusetts, is announced for a "missionary" tour in Virginia.

——Edward Eager, a colored man of Wilmington, was on Sunday last ordained to preach by the Baptist Convention of this State.

——The commencement exercises of Wayne Female College will embrace the 3rd. and 4th. of July.

——A rumor has been current in Newbern, that the Criminal Court of Craven had been dissolved by order of Gen. Sickles.—The Republican says there is no foundation for the rumor. The Court is now in session,—Judge Green presiding.

——The Postmaster at Newbern went on board a steamer, on Saturday afternoon last, to bid his "better-half" adieu, on her departure for New York. He became so oblivious to mundane affairs, however, that he was transported away by the boat.

——We learn, from the Wilmington Dispatch, that a Mr. Burkhead, nephew of Elder Burkhead, of the Methodist Church, a divine well known in this State, has been carried to that city in irons, from South Carolina, having been tried by a Military Commission in that State for participation in some disturbance. His sentence was not read to him until his arrival there, when it was divulged that he was to be confined in Fort Macon at hard labor for seven years. The public would be glad to know the nature of the offence, as such a punishment seems a most extraordinary one for a simple "participation in a disturbance."

Stagnation and distrust are the characteristics of business affairs in every part of the country. The paper currency is abundant, and is piled up by the bale in the commercial cities, particularly in New York. There is no safe business calling for its employment, and its holders are chary of loans upon any sort of security less valuable than gold itself. We have noticed instances in which planters and cotton factors from Georgia have offered in New York a high rate of interest and most ample security upon crops, land, &c., for money to make their plantations productive, and they could not obtain it in the great commercial emporium. This is the more remarkable, for the reason, that, by a law of the State of Georgia, a first lien is given to the lender upon the crops and property.

These facts show a want of confidence in the present condition of the affairs of the country that is truly ominous.—National Intelligencer.

OFFICERS UNDER THE BANKRUPT LAW.

Messrs. Editors:—There appears to be, at this time, a worse scramble for office than ever before,—particularly by citizens of the Northern States, who appear to think that all the offices, both State and Federal, belong to them by divine right, in exclusion of the native citizens of the State.—There is not a district or county in the South, in which there are not more or less of them without any fixed habitation, who have come in since the war, and who are not identified, in the least, with the people or their interests. And they are the applicants for every office. There is hardly a district, but what there is an applicant for the office of Register under the Bankrupt Law, who is a citizen of some Northern State.

We know of one district, where a man, a citizen of the State of Wisconsin, is the applicant and expects to get the appointment. The people look upon such with distrust and are positively opposed to the appointment of any man who is not a bona fide citizen of the State. We have men qualified in every respect to fill these offices,—men who have remained here during the war, and can take the "iron-clad"—men that can qualify by the standard of loyalty, the appointment of whom would render general satisfaction; and it is expected of our district Judge, Mr. Brooks, that he will refuse to confirm the nomination of any one that is not a bona fide citizen of the State and identified with her interests.

What would be thought of any Southern man going into a Northern State, and, before he had the dust brushed from his clothes, making application for office in the gift of the government, in exclusion of the citizens of the place where he was stopping? No respectable man will do it, and the people of this State look with distrust upon any one that comes here and merely stops at a hotel until he can obtain some office.

The people are willing that they should come among them, and will treat them well as long as they behave themselves, but are not willing that all the offices, both State and Federal, should be held by them.

A CITIZEN.

For the Sentinel.

SENATOR WILSON, & CO.

Editors Sentinel:—Mr. Henry Wilson asserts, in his various speeches, that he has always been an abolitionist. He can probably reconcile that statement with the following words uttered in explanation of Senator Brown's charge identifying him with the abolition party, which will be found on page 95, appendix to Congressional Globe, 34th. Congress, 3rd session:

"My idea is this: I want all men, who are opposed to slavery, to take a moderate and reasonable position, to abandon the extreme notions they now entertain, to oppose the extension of slavery, separate the Federal government from its connexion with it, banish the negro discussions that we are having in these Halls, and leave slavery in the slave States, where the Constitution leaves it, to the care of the people of those several States. I believe that when that is done, the liberal, high minded, just men of the South will, in their own time and in their own way, bring about a safe emancipation. That is my view of the matter; it was so then, it is so now."

The people could read with profit the whole of that discussion, and any gentleman, desirous of replying to Mr. Wilson, will see, on examination, how anxious he was to exonerate himself from the charge of abolitionism.

Are the people aware that Mr. Pool's address is but an abridgment of the Standard, for the last two or more years? If the Standard and Pool should happen to disagree, after a while, about a division of the spoils, when they reconstruct after their fashion, I think it likely that Pool will find that the Standard will claim the parentage of the document, so highly praised in its columns! UBI?

One of Underwood's Model Decisions Reversed.—In the case of the United States vs. Joseph Bruin, whose property was confiscated and sold under a decree of the United States District Court sitting in Alexandria, Judge Underwood presiding, during the war, on the application of G. S. Miner, Esq., one of the counsel for Mr. Bruin, Chief Justice Chase on Wednesday granted a writ of error on the following grounds:

First. That the District Court condemned and sold the absolute estate of the petitioner in and to the property, which judgement it was beyond the power of the Court to pronounce.

Second. That the condemnation of the property was for treason, of which the party could not be adjudged guilty except by the finding of a jury.

Third. That the proceedings were in admiralty when they should have been upon the common law side of the Court, by information and not by libel.

Returning Reason.—We learn from the Lynchburg Republican that the lecture of Mr. H. Rives Pollard, on the "Chivalry of the South," was to have come off in Lynchburg on the evening of last Thursday, but was not delivered for want of an audience. At eight o'clock the lecturer appeared upon the stage and announced to empty benches that the lecture would be indefinitely postponed.

We thus see that the prohibition of this lecture was a work of supererogation on the part of the military authorities. The fact detailed above shows that the people of Virginia are sick of gammon about "chivalry," but are returning to hard work and common sense.—Norfolk Journal.

Beauties of Brownlowism.—We learn that Messrs. Stears, Rosser & Co., contractors on the Knoxville and Kentucky railroad, and who have but recently commenced work with a number of negroes carried from this State, have been seriously interfered with by Brownlow's recruiting officers, who have enticed off nearly all their negroes by holding out to them the superior advantages they will enjoy in being enrolled in King Bill's Melish. The ignorant blacks are readily deluded by the specious promises of Brownlow's bummers, and almost to a man have enlisted under his "glorious flag."—Lynchburg Virginian.

A letter received at Washington from Jackson, Mississippi, states that Judge Sharkey opposes a State Convention under the Reconstruction act, and says military rule is better than negro rule. He is also disgusted with the readiness with which so many prominent Southern men accept the situation, when, as he asserts, a quick and firm opposition would have produced a reaction at the North which would have resulted in the repeal of the law.

Mr. Beecher, appealing to his people for the Southern relief fund, says, "My sister, Mrs. Stowe, has just returned from a two months journey in Florida and Georgia. I have heard from her lips tales of suffering among the educated and cultivated that would melt your hearts could I relate them as she told them to me."

Among the presents for the Pope, which were taken by the Catholic Church dignitaries who sailed from New York, was a model, in silver, of the yacht Henrietta, carrying a cargo of $50,000 in gold pieces. This present is from the Catholics of Cincinnati.

POSTPONED TO JUNE 17.
GRAND CHARITABLE PRESENTATION CONCERT.
—IN AID OF THE—
SOUTHERN ORPHAN ASSOCIATION.
(Incorporated by the Legislature of Virginia, January 30, 1867.)
TO BE GIVEN AT THE MARYLAND INSTITUTE,
BALTIMORE,
JUNE 17th. 1867.
THE PROFITS OF THIS CONCERT WILL BE GIVEN TO THE SOUTHERN ORPHANS ASSOCIATION, TO THESUBJOINED ADDRESS FROM THE OFFICERS OF WHICH, WE CALL THE ATTENTION OF THE PUBLIC.
The officers of the Southern Orphans' Association, for the maintenance and education of the destitute orphans of deceased Southern soldiers and sailors, earnestly solicit the sympathy and co-operation in our
GRAND PRESENTATION CONCERT OF ALL WHO DESIRE TO SEE THE
"HOME AND SCHOOL"
Enabled to receive and care for all the needy ones who seek its shelter and protection.
It is the design of this Association to erect a
"HOME AND SCHOOL"
for the Ophans of the South, both male and female, on an extensive scale, in the city of Richmond, Va. As an inducement to have the building located there, the Common Council of that city have guaranteed a sufficient lot of land, in an elevated and healthful location, and will increase the quantity of land if needed.
It is with a confident hope in a favorable response to this appeal to a public which has never yet failed to sustain a charitable institution, that we have entered into an arrangement with Messrs. L. T. Palmer & Co., No. 13 Holliday street, Baltimore, to organize a Grand Musical Presentation Concert for its benefit, and earnestly solicit the kindly aid and patronage of the public to ensure its success.
It may seem unnecessary to add a single word to the above address, but calls upon the Institution have been so numerous and pressing, and the struggle through which it is now passing to widen the circle of its charities, is of such an arduous nature that the management cannot too strongly urge upon the
everywhere an active participation in this additional attempt to alleviate the sad condition of great numbers of helpless children, rendered thus by the terrible war through which we have passed. And, assuredly, whatever may have been the relative political views of ladies and gentlemen heretofore, all must agree that the children referred to could not, by any possibility, have had any agency in bringing about their present
DEPLORABLE AND DESTITUTE CONDITION and are suitable objects for the charity of all persons of whatever shade of political opinion. The
"HOME AND SCHOOL"
which they now more particularly seek to establish and endow, will be of incalculable benefit by providing not only food and raiment for these helpless ones, but likewise solid and thorough education, thus qualifying them for FUTURE USEFULNESS TO SOCIETY AT LARGE.
In order that this appeal may be effectual in enlisting the active interest and co-operation of all classes of persons everywhere, we have concluded to issue for the GRAND
PRESENTATION MUSICAL CONCERT
500,000 tickets at the nominal price of $1 each—a single ticket entitling the purchaser to a gift—there being one gift to every ticket. The gifts are as follows:

THE SENTINEL.

LOCAL DEPARTMENT.

THURSDAY, MAY 30, 1867.

TO ADVERTISERS.—The public will find the Sentinel one of the best mediums of advertising in the State. Its circulation covers a larger area, perhaps, than any other paper.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.—We call the attention of the public to the consolidated announcement of many of the celebrated Virginia Springs. They have all, we learn, been put in as good condition as they were before the war, and hold out unusual inducements to the seekers after health and those who can afford to go in quest of pleasure.

Mrs. E. A. Nixon, at her residence on Fayetteville street, will supply excellent board to eight or ten persons.

Mitchell, Allen & Co., Newbern, will supply Mechanics and Farmers with all the improved tools and implements.

The Superintendent of the N. C. Railroad gives notice that visitors to the University and Trinity College Commencements will be transported for one fare, if tickets are purchased.

We beg to invite the especial attention of merchants in this and the other Southern States, under whose notice it may fall, to the advertisement of Gen. Jno. A. Young, President of the Rock Island Manufacturing Co. We regard this establishment as one of the most creditable "institutions" of the State. Its fabrics we know to be of the most superior quality and texture,—entirely free, as the President says, from shoddy or other impurities. We are proud of the Rock Island Manufacturing Co., and we cannot too highly commend its goods to the use of our people and the patronage of our dealers.

Fans, Fans: W. H. & R. S. Tucker & Co.

Butter, Tea, Rice: Douglas Bell, Market Square.

Messrs Pulliam, Jones & Co. will resume their great Catalogue Auction Sales on the 5th prox. The stock to be offered comprises a choice selection of hardware, cutlery, dry goods, groceries, liquors, &c. These sales are justly attracting much attention and interest.

COME AND "provoke a breeze," (in other words, buy a fan,) say Messrs. Tucker & Co. We know of no one that is not anxious "to raise the wind," just now, and so we have no doubt the fans will go off.

THE PRESIDENT'S RECEPTION.—The Committee, on the part of the Commissioners, have perfected their arrangements for the reception of the President.

The Governor and the heads of the State Departments, accompanied by a committee of the city authorities, will proceed to Weldon, on Monday next, to meet the President and welcome him to the confines of the State.

He will be received at the Depot in this City, on his arrival on Monday afternoon, by the Mayor and citizens, and by the Military with the usual courtesies and honors.—He will thence be escorted to the Yarborough House, where and when Governor Worth will extend to him, in a brief address, the hospitalities of the State and its Capital.

The exercises at the City Cemetery, connected with the erection of the monument to the father of the President, will commence at 11 o'clock, on Tuesday morning. By previous arrangement, the Hon. D. L. Swain, President of the University, will deliver an address on the occasion.

It will thus be seen that the more public observances are to be of a simple and unostentatious character. Such, under the peculiar circumstances of the President's visit, will doubtless be the most grateful to his feelings.

BOOK BINDERY.—Mr. Wm. H. Bernard, Printer and Publisher, No. 3 South Water street, Wilmington, has engaged the services of Mr. Thos. H. Tillinghast, one of the best book binders in the State, and has opened in connection with his business of Printing and Publishing a well appointed bindery.

TRICKS OF THE REPUBLICAN PROPAGANDISTS.—The radical emissaries now scattered over Middle and South Alabama, for the purpose of enlisting the freedmen under the republican banner, resort to all sorts of falsehoods and tricks to get the negroes to attend public meetings. A canebrake planter states that a freedman in his employment, wishing to attend one of the meetings, said that he had been told that those who did not attend would be fined or punished in some other way; also that the negroes had a right to attend all public meetings, the days on which public meetings were held being considered public days, and that employers had no right to make any deduction for absence on those days.—Cor. N. Y. Herald.

WHAT IS SAID OF THE ATTORNEY GENERAL'S OPINION.

The National Intelligencer says:

"Each of the points raised is thoroughly discussed with the accustomed ability, clearness, and precision of the distinguished Attorney General, which have given him so exalted a reputation in the profession he has so long honored. The meaning attaching to the several phrases is so minutely and clearly set forth that it leaves nothing to be added. No intelligent citizen can fail to decide readily for himself whether or not he can take the oath prescribed, and thus secure the right of suffrage under the acts of Congress, and the people of the South, and, indeed, of the entire country, are greatly indebted to the Attorney General for thus throwing light upon a perplexing and delicate question. One point, however, is still left unsettled—as to who are included in the phrase, judicial and executive officers. But this is to be cleared up when the abstracts are prepared for the several States, which will exhibit all these officers and the duties which appertain to them.

We have already set forth in these columns the signification which was, in our judgement, attached to various expressions used in these laws, such as engaging in the rebellion, giving aid and comfort to the enemy, &c., and are gratified to find that put forth in this able document, which will command the universal commendation of the thoughtful people of this country, and deservedly add to the reputation of the first law-officer of this Government."

The Richmond Examiner observes:

"But the opinion we think will give pretty general satisfaction to all parties, because it settles definitively the question as to who are to take part in the rehabilitation of these ten States. It will be read with the deepest interest by all classes, and doubtless call forth the severest criticism in some quarters, but it will be accepted as the only true guide for our future action under the Military act; for we have no doubt that it will be adopted by all of the Commanding Generals as their rule of practice, and that the registers of voters will receive instructions to strictly conform their acts with its definitions."

The Newbern Republican (Rad.) remarks:

"The broadest latitude is given, and many who were supposed to be disfranchised by the Reconstruction acts can vote under Mr. Stanabury's interpretation."

The Richmond Enquirer says:

"Our people are so accustomed of late to edicts, and so little to reasons, that the document to which we refer would better have served its purpose and answered expectations, if the Attorney General had given us his conclusions and spared the arguments. However faulty they might be, we have no power of correction. However oppressive, we have nothing but to submit. A "sic volo" is more to the point than a "quod erat demonstrandum." There would have been this further advantage in a paper such as we have expressed a preference for,—we would have been able to understand it with the greater certainty; and to have got at its conclusions without toiling so hard after them."

HILLSBORO' MILITARY ACADEMY.—General Colston announces through the columns of the Index, this morning, the advantages offered by this institution of learning. Situated centrally and in a most healthy portion of North Carolina, its management is such as to deserve the patronage of the Southern public. The principal has recently incorporated a new feature, which will present attractions to many of our young men. To those who are unable to devote the time and expense necessary to graduation in a full course, the opportunity is offered of entering for a special time and purpose. Thus, one wishing to be qualified for subordinate engineering, can enter with a view to perfection in the branches absolutely necessary to that object. Those of our people who have sons to educate would do well to consult General Colston for further particulars as to his excellent school.—Petersburg Index.

THE REGISTERS.—It is not singular, perhaps, but is unfortunate, that in the selection of registers for the State the gentlemen chosen should have been so almost, without exception, members of the radical party. There are a great many Northern men in our midst who can take the oath required, and who would discharge the duties of these positions without the bias of party prejudice. —Petersburg Index.

Sir Archibald Allison, the celebrated historian and writer on criminal law, died in Scotland a few days since. His history of Europe, on which his fame principally rests, appeared in 1833, and is still in extensive demand, having been reprinted in most languages of the old world. The deceased had been Rector of Glasgow University since 1851.

A farmer in New York willed his daughter four thousand dollars on condition that she would marry a Catholic clergyman.—As Catholic clergymen do not marry, the daughter endeavors to break the will. The defence is that the old man didn't mean she should have any of the property, and took this way of saying so.

THE NEW VERSION.—The Missouri Baptist Journal, speaking of the new version of the Bible gotten out under the auspices of the American Baptist Bible Union, says: "If a vote were taken to-day in the Baptist denomination of the American continent on this version question, the majority would be overwhelming against the new version."

An amusing circumstance happened in a singing school in Pennsylvania. A Mr. Paine was the teacher, and a Miss. Patience one of the pupils. In the course of the evening he gave out the tune set to the words, "Come, gentle patience, smile on pain." The pupils were so excited by laughter, that it was found impossible to sing the line.

Confederate Colonel G. J. Lay, of Virginia, died in New Orleans, on the 8th, from the effects of a wound received in one of the battles near Richmond three years ago.

The Democratic majority in Kentucky—official—is ascertained to be 46,042 over the Radicals, and 41,353 over both the others combined.

GERMAN METHODISTS.—The Methodist Church in the United States has upwards of 50,000 German members, more than half of whom have preaching in their own language.

The Southern Baptist Convention, at its late session, named Saturday before the fourth Sunday in June next, as a day of general prayer and humiliation throughout the Southern Churches.

The Evangelical Lutheran General Synod in North America, composed of the delegates from five States, met on Friday in Staunton. Rev. S. Rothrock, of North Carolina, was elected President.

MR. BEECHER AND MR. DAVIS.—On Friday evening last, the Rev. Henry Ward Beecher delivered a discourse in his church in Brooklyn, New York, in which he strongly defended the release of Jefferson Davis. His remarks created considerable sensation, especially among the Radical friends.

Base ball occupies so much of the time of many young men in Boston, that employers now inquire of applicants for positions whether they belong to a ball club.

ROCKBRIDGE ALUM SPRINGS.

OPEN JUNE 1.

This favorite and delightful watering-place, having undergone thorough renovation, is prepared to receive visitors. The owners have made every effort in the outfit and equipment to render the place more than ever attractive to those in quest of recreation, while to the invalid its medicinal waters hold out new hopes of health. It may be confidently claimed for them that they have in a great many cases relieved, and in many more cases cured, the following diseases: SCROFULA, and many chronic CUTANEOUS diseases; CHRONIC THROAT, BRONCHITIS, DYSPEPSIA, CHRONIC DIARRHŒA, DROPSY, AFFECTIONS of KIDNEY and BLADDER, and PILES; and, in connection with the Hot Baths, CHRONIC RHEUMATISM.

As an appetizer, a tonic, and general restorative to an enfeebled constitution, it is perhaps unrivalled amongst mineral waters. The proprietors have engaged for the approaching season both for the LAWN and the BALL-ROOM.

A VERY SUPERIOR BAND OF MUSIC,

THE BILLIARD AND BOWLING SALOONS, both for ladies and gentlemen, will be found in more complete order than ever before.

From the very extensive preparations now making at all the leading Virginia Springs, a heavy travel is anticipated, and, we think, will be attracted. It shall be the aim of the undersigned to keep their establishment FULLY UP TO THE FOREMOST; and they hope to see a renewal of the social re-unions which in former years lent such a charm to these mountain retreats.

Passengers by the Virginia Central railroad get off the cars at GOSHEN Depot. Eight (8) miles of staging over a smooth road lands them at the Springs.

BOARD, $3.50 PER DAY; $90 PER MONTH.

We have secured the efficient services of Captain WILLIAM H. SALE, so long and favorably known to the public, in connection with these Springs.

KNOW THY DESTINY.

MADAME E. F. THORNTON, the great English Astrologist, Clairvoyant and Psychometrician, who has astonished the scientific classes of the Old World, has now located herself at Hudson, N. Y. Madame Thornton possesses such wonderful powers of second sight, as to enable her to impart knowledge of the greatest importance to the single or married of either sex. While in a state of trance, she delineates the very features of the person you are to marry, and by the aid of an instrument of intense power, known as the Psychomotrope, guarantees to produce a life-like picture of the future husband or wife of the applicant, together with date of marriage, position in life, leading traits of character, &c. This is no humbug, as thousands of testimonials can assert. She will send when desired a certified certificate, or written guarantee, that the picture is what it purports to be. By enclosing a small lock of hair and stating place of birth, age, disposition and complexion, and enclosing fifty cents and stamped envelope addressed to yourself, you will receive the picture and desired information by return mail. THURSDAY, MAY 30, 1867.

HOME.

A volume of the poems of Charles Warren Stoddard is passing through the press. The subjoined extract, an imitation of Tennyson, is extremely picturesque and tender:

A sailor by the green home shore,
While seas are ebbing from his view,
Doth all his early joys renew;
He sings the songs he sang of yore.

He spies his little cot; he smiles
With a full joy ne'er felt before—
He holds that one bare prospect more
Than all the summer of the isles.

The quiet home is his; the trees
Sprang from the seeds his grandsires laid
Among the mould; within the glade
The myrtles rustle in the breeze.

His early lost, his first deep woe!
Not any land that he may know
Beyon.l the purple of the wave

Hath such a jewel in its breast.
He loves each rock and stream and dell;
'Tis only here he cares to dwell,
'Tis ever here he longs to rest.

This is his home of joy and ease;
And better is the myrtle tomb
Than all the heavy dusks that gloom
The groves of spice beyond the seas.

Family Grocers and Commission

MERCHANTS,

IN THE BRICK ROW,

Four Doors North of the Post Office and nearly Opposite Market Square,

FAYETTEVILLE STREET,

RALEIGH, N. C.

Grateful for the flattering patronage with which we have heretofore been so kindly favored, we respectfully solicit an increased share of the patronage of the citizens of Raleigh and the surrounding country. Without specially guessing, we deem it sufficient to say, that our stock mostly embraces such articles as are usually found in Family Groceries. Most of our goods have been recently bought in New York and Baltimore, for cash, and we hope to be able to sell them on satisfactory terms. In addition to our stock of Groceries, &c., we have a fine lot of

HATS AND READY MADE CLOTHING

and a splendid lot of Confectioneries, consisting of all of which will be sold on reasonable terms.

We have also a fine lot of genuine Durham Smoking Tobacco, which we can implicitly recommend to "those who smoke." Please call and see us.

We will pay particular attention to all consignments of Produce and Merchandize entrusted to our care and will endeavor to sell at the best market prices. Consignments are respectfully solicited. By a prompt and close attention to business and fair dealing with all, we hope to merit and receive a share of public patronage.

April 13-211-tf

WE WONDER WHY ALMOST EVERY BODY (or at least a great many more folks,) don't call and get a new HAT and some READY-MADE CLOTHING, while they are going so cheap; or supply themselves with a great many of the other good things so useful to housekeepers to be found at JENKINS & PERRY'S.

Congressional Reconstruction Acts.

For the information of our readers we republish as follows the late reconstruction act of Congress, known as the Sherman-Shellabarger bill. We shall add to it the Howard Amendment, Test Oath and the Supplementary act, all of which will be kept standing until the necessary information they contain shall be generally and fully understood.

THE RECONSTRUCTION ACT.

AN ACT to provide for the more efficient government of the rebel States.

[Passed over the President's Veto, March 2d, 1867.]

WHEREAS, no legal State governments or adequate protection for life or property now exists in the rebel States of Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Mississippi, Alabama, Louisiana, Florida, Texas, and Arkansas; and whereas it is necessary that peace and good order should be enforced in said States until loyal and Republican State Governments can be legally established: Therefore,

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That said rebel States shall be divided into military districts and made subject to the military authority of the United States as hereinafter prescribed, and for that purpose Virginia shall constitute the first district; North Carolina and South Carolina the second district; Georgia, Alabama and Florida the third district; Mississippi and Arkansas the fourth district; and Louisiana and Texas the fifth district.

SEC. 2. And be it further enacted, That it shall be the duty of the President to assign to the command of each of said districts an officer of the army, not below the rank of Brigadier general, and to detail a sufficient military force to enable such officer to perform his duties and enforce his authority within the district to which he is assigned.

SEC. 3. And be it further enacted, That it shall be the duty of each officer assigned as aforesaid to protect all persons in their rights of person and property, to suppress insurrection, disorder and violence, and to punish or cause to be punished all disturbers of the public peace and criminals, and to this end he may allow local civil tribunals to take jurisdiction of and try offenders, or, when in his judgment it may be necessary for the trial of offenders, he shall have power to organize military commissions or tribunals for that purpose, and all interference, under color of State authority, with the exercise of military authority under this act shall be null and void.

SEC. 4. And be it further enacted, That all persons put under military arrest by virtue of this act shall be tried without unnecessary delay, and no cruel or unusual punishment shall be inflicted; and no sentence of any military commission or military tribunal hereby authorized affecting the life or liberty of any person, shall be executed until it is approved by the officer in command of the district, and the laws and regulations for the government of the army shall not be affected by this act, except in so far as they conflict with its provisions. Provided, That no sentence of death, under the provisions of this act, shall be carried into effect without the approval of the President.

SEC. 5. And be it further enacted, That when the people of any one of said rebel States shall have formed a constitution of government in conformity with the Constitution of the United States in all respects, framed by a convention of delegates elected by the male citizens of said State, twenty one years old and upwards, of whatever race, color or previous condition, who have been resident in said State for one year previous to the day of such election, except such as may be disfranchised for participation in the rebellion, or for felony at common law, and when such constitution shall provide that the elective franchise shall be enjoyed by all such persons as have the qualifications herein stated for electors of delegates; and when such constitution shall be ratified by a majority of the persons voting on the question of ratification, who are qualified as electors for delegates; and when such constitution shall be ratified by a majority of the persons voting on the question of ratification, who are qualified as electors for delegates; and when such constitution shall have been submitted to Congress for examination and approval, and Congress shall have approved the same; and when the said State, by a vote of its legislature elected under said constitution, shall have adopted the amendment to the constitution of the United States, proposed by the Thirty-ninth Congress, and known as article fourteen; and when said article shall have become a part of the constitution of the United States, said State shall be declared entitled to representation in Congress, and Senators and Representatives shall be admitted therefrom, on their taking the oath prescribed by law; and then and thereafter the preceding sections of this act shall be inoperative in said State. Provided, That no person excluded from the privilege of holding office by said amendment to the constitution of the United States shall be eligible to election as a member of the convention to frame a constitution for any of said rebel States, nor shall any such person vote for members of such convention.

SEC. 6. And be it further enacted, That until the people of said rebel States shall be by law admitted to representation in the Congress of the United States, any civil government which may exist therein shall be deemed provisional only, and in all respects subject to the paramount authority of the United States at any time to abolish, modify, control or supercede the same; and all elections to any office under such provisional governments all persons shall be entitled to vote, and none others, who are entitled to vote under the provisions of the fifth section of this act; and no person shall be eligible to any office under such provisional governments who would be disqualified from holding office under the provisions of the third article of said constitutional amendment.

SCHUYLER COLFAX
Speaker of the House of Representatives.
LAFAYETTE S. FOSTER,
President of the Senate pro tem.

The following is the Constitutional Amendment referred to in the 4th section of the Sherman bill:

Proposed Constitutional Amendment.

ARTICLE XIV.

Section 1. All persons born or naturalized in the United States and subject to the jurisdiction thereof are citizens of the United States and of the State wherein they reside. No State shall make or enforce any law which shall abridge the privileges or immunities of citizens of the United States; nor shall any State deprive any person of life, liberty or property without due process of law, nor deny to any person within its jurisdiction the equal protection of the laws.

Sec. 2. Representatives shall be apportioned among the several States according to their respective numbers, counting the whole number of persons in each State excluding Indians not taxed. But when the right to vote at any election for the choice of electors for President and Vice-President of the United States, representatives in Congress, executive and judicial officers of a State, or the members of the Legislature thereof, is denied to any of the male inhabitants of such State being twenty-one years of age and citizens of the United States, or in any way abridged except for participation in rebellion or other crime, the basis of representation therein shall be reduced in the proportion which the number of such male citizens shall bear to the whole number of male citizens twenty-one years of age in such State.

Sec. 3. No person shall be a Senator or Representative in Congress, or elector of President and Vice-President, or hold any office, civil or military, under the United States or under any State, who, having previously taken an oath as a member of Congress, or as an officer of the United States, or as a member of any State Legislature, or as an executive or judicial officer of any State, to support the Constitution of the United States, afterwards engaged in insurrection or rebellion against the same, or given aid and comfort to the enemies thereof. But Congress may, by a vote of two-thirds of each House, remove such disability.

Sec. 4. The validity of the publicdebt of the United States authorized by law, including debts incurred for payment of pensions and bounties for services in suppressing insurrection or rebellion, shall not be questioned. But neither the United States nor any State shall assume or pay any debt or obligation incurred in aid of insurrection or rebellion against the United States, or any claim for the loss or emancipation of any slave; but all such debts, obligations and claims, shall be held illegal and void.

Sec. 5. The Congress shall have power to enforce by appropriate legislation the provisions of this article.

The following is the oath of office referred to in the 5th section of the bill, and also in the 6th of the Supplementary Bill:

An Act to Prescribe an Oath of Office and for Other Purposes.

Be it enacted, That hereafter any person elected or appointed to any office of honor or profit under the government of the United States, either in the civil, military or naval department of the public service, except the President of the United States, shall before entering upon the duties of such office, and before being entitled to any of the salary or other emolument thereof, take and subscribe the following oath or affirmation: "I, A B, do solemnly swear (or affirm) that I have never voluntarily borne arms against the U. S. since I have been a citizen thereof; that I have voluntarily given no aid, countenance, counsel or encouragement to persons engaged in armed hostility thereto; that I have never sought nor accepted, nor attempted to exercise the functions of any office whatever, under any authority, or pretended authority, in hostility to the United States; that I have not yielded a voluntary support to any pretended government, power or constitution within the United States, hostile or inimical thereto; and I do further swear (or affirm) that to the best of my knowlege and ability, I will support and defend the constitution of the United States against all enemies, foreign and domestic; that I will bear true faith and allegiance to the same; that I take this obligation freely, without any mental reservation or purpose of evasion, and that I will well and faithfully discharge the duties of the office on which I am about to enter. So help me God." which oath, so taken and signed, shall be preserved among the files of the Court, Houses of Congress, or the department to which said officer may appertain. And any person who may falsely take said oath shall be guilty of perjury, and on conviction, in addition to the penalties now prescribed for that offence, shall be deprived of his office, and rendered incapable, forever after, of holding any office or place under the United States.

Approved July 2, 1862.

SUPPLEMENT TO THE STEVENS-SHERMAN-SHELLABARGER BILL.

AN ACT supplemental to an act entitled an act to provide for the more efficient government of the rebel States, passed March 2, 1867, and to facilitate restoration.

Be it enacted, &c., That before the first day of September, 1867, the commanding general in each district defined by the act to provide for the more efficient government of the rebel States, approved March 2, 1867, shall cause a registration to be made of the male citizens of the United States, twenty-one years of age, and upwards, resident in each county or parish in the State or States included in his district, which registration will include only those persons who are qualified to vote for delegates by the act aforesaid, and who shall have taken and subscribed the following oath or affirmation:

"I, ——, do solemnly swear, or affirm, in the presence of Almighty God, that I am a citizen of the State of ——; that I have resided in said State for —— months next preceding this day, and now reside in the county of ——, or the parish of ——, in said State, as the case may be; that I am 21 years old; that I have not been disfranchised for participation in any rebellion or civil war against the United States, nor for felony committed against the laws of any State or of the United States; that I have never been a member of any State Legislature, or held any executive or judicial office in any State, and afterwards engaged in insurrection and rebellion against the United States, and given aid or comfort to the enemies thereof; that I have never taken an oath as a member of Congress of the United States, or as an officer of the United States, or as a member of any State Legislature, or as an executive or judicial officer of any State, to support the Constitution of the United States, and afterwards engaged in insurrection or rebellion against the United States or given aid or comfort to the enemies thereof; that I will faithfully support the Constitution and obey the laws of the United States, and will, to the best of my ability, encourage others so to do. So help me God." which oath or affirmation may be administered by any registering officer.

Sec. 2. That after the completion of the registration hereby provided for in any State at such time and place therein as the commanding general shall appoint and direct, of which at least thirty day's public notice shall be given, an election shall be held of delegates to a convention for the purpose of establishing a constitution and civil government for such State loyal to the Union; said convention in each State, except Virginia, to consist of the same number of members as the most numerous branch of the State Legislature of such State in the year 1860, to be apportioned among the several districts, counties, or parishes of such State by the commanding general, giving to each representation in the ratio of voters registered as aforesaid as nearly as may be. The convention in Virginia shall consist of the same number of members as represented the territory now constituting Virginia in the most numerous branch of the Legislature of said State in the year 1860, to be apportioned as aforesaid.

Sec. 3. That at such election the registered voters of each State shall vote for or against a convention to form a constitution thereof under this act. Those voting in favor of such a convention shall have written or printed on the ballots by which they vote for delegates, as aforesaid, the words "for a convention;" and those voting against such a convention shall have written or printed on such ballots the words "against a convention." The persons appointed to superintend said election, and to make return of the votes given thereat, as herein provided, shall count and make return of the votes given for and against a convention; and the commanding general, to whom the same shall have been returned, shall ascertain and declare the total vote in each State for and against a convention. If a majority of the votes given on that question shall be for a convention, then a convention shall be held, as hereinafter provided; but if a majority of said votes shall be against a convention, then no convention shall be held under this act: Provided, That such convention shall not be held unless a majority of all such registered voters shall have voted on the question of holding such convention.

Sec. 4. That the commanding general of each district shall appoint such loyal officers or persons as may be necessary, not exceeding three in each election district, in any State, to make and complete the registration, superintend the election, and make return to him of the votes, lists of voters and of the persons elected as delegates by a plurality of the votes cast at said election; and upon receiving said returns he shall open the same, ascertain the persons elected as delegates according to the returns of the officers who conducted said election, and make proclamation thereof; and if a majority of the votes given on that question shall be for a convention, the commanding general within sixty days from the date of election, shall notify the delegates to assemble in convention at a time and place to be mentioned in the notification, and said convention, when organized, shall proceed to frame a Constitution and civil government according to the provisions of this act, and the act to which it is supplementary; and when the same shall have been so framed, said Constitution shall be submitted by the convention for ratification to the persons registered under the provisions of this act, at an election to be conducted by the officers, or persons appointed by the commanding general as hereinbefore provided, and to be held after the expiration of thirty days from the date of notice thereof to be given by said convention, and the returns thereof shall be made to the commanding general of the district.

Sec. 5 That if, according to said returns, the constitution shall be ratified by a majority of the votes of the registered electors qualified as herein specified, cast at said election, at least one-half of all the registered voters voting upon the question of such ratification, the president of the convention shall transmit a copy of the same, duly certified, to the President of the United States, who shall forthwith transmit the same to Congress, if then in session, and if not in session, then immediately upon its next assembling; and if it shall moreover appear to Congress that the election was one at which all the registered and qualified electors in the State had an opportunity to vote freely and without restraint, fear or the influence of fraud, and if Congress shall be satisfied that such constitution meets the approval of a majority of the qualified electors in the State, and if the said constitution shall be declared by Congress to be in conformity with the provisions of the act to which this is supplementary, and the other provisions of said act shall have been complied with, and the said constitution shall be approved by Congress, the State shall be declared entitled to representation, and Senators and Representatives shall be admitted therefrom as herein provided.

Sec. 6. That all elections in the States mentioned in the said "Act to provide for the more efficient government of the rebel States," shall, during the operation of said act, be by ballot; and all officers making the said registration of voters and conducting said elections shall, before entering upon the discharge of their duties, subscribe an oath faithfully to perform the duties of their said office, and the oath prescribed by the act approved July 2, 1862, entitled "An act to prescribe an oath of office:" Provided, That if any person shall knowingly and falsely take and subscribe any oath in this act prescribed, such person so offending, and being thereof duly convicted, shall be subject to the pains, penalties and disabilities which by law are provided for the punishment of the crime of wilful and corrupt perjury.

Sec. 7. That all expenses incurred by the several commanding generals, or by virtue of any orders issued or appointments made by them under or by virtue of this act, shall be paid out of any moneys in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated.

Sec. 8. That the convention for each State shall prescribe the fees, salary, and compensation to be paid to all delegates and other officers and agents herein authorized or necessary to carry into effect the purposes of this act, not herein otherwise provided for, and shall provide for the levy and collection of such taxes on the property in such State as may be necessary to pay the same.

Sec. 9. That the word "article" in the sixth section of the act to which this is supplementary shall be construed to mean "section."
